Brand New Book  Print on Demand .Excerpt from German Life and Manners as Seen in Saxony at the Present Day, Vol. 1 of 2: With an Account of Village Life Town Life Fashionable Life Domestic Life Married Life School and University Life, C., Of Germany at the Present Time, Illustrated With Songs and Pictures of the Student Customs at the University of Jena My dear Wife, - No man - you know better than anyone - hates the public parade of private affections more than myself. It is as easy as lying for the tetchiest Smell-fungus to be amiable upon paper; and even a Howard may pet thieves in the face of the world, and yet show not the least indulgence, in the seclusion of his fireside, for the failings of his own son. So facile is it for anyone, with a pennyworth of oil in the palm, to play the Good Samaritan. Nevertheless, there are occasions which call for some outward acknowledgment of services rendered at home; of family debts due, which it would be dishonesty to ignore in public. Were it not for this, you and I would have lived the same quiet unostentatious life of mutual assistance and befriending as thousands of others live in our own country, where (despite the revelations of the Divorce Court) marriage is still something more congenial than feline and canine co-existence.
