They landed, and guided by the cockle-collectors they proceeded to Mount Eden, and, when seen by those in the great pa, were welcomed by waving of garments, and the old chant, Come, O stranger from the horizon. They went on over the hard scoria flat on the east of the pa, and ascended the hill by a path that led from the Tikopuke (Mount St. John) Pa, and sat down on the niarae (courtyard) of the pa, where speeches of welcome were uttered by the chiefs and answered by some of the young men of the guests. Food was cooked, and a feast given to the strangers, which the senior in rank of the young people apportioned out amongst themselves; but, in view of the games in which they were to take part in the evening, all ate with feigned gusto, pretending which was according to custom that the feast was of the most delieious flavour; but they ate little, lest they should be drowsy and feel corpulent, and thereby detract from the agility needed in the coming games, and lessen the praise of the onlooking crowd of the Mount Eden party, who would expect to see those engaged so agile that they could move their bodies as though the waist of each were cut in two. After the feast they sat wondering when evening would come; also the people of the pa felt the same query pass through their minds; but the people...
