Shows the plan and profiles of General Bosnut Line. np in rear of the i arks, immediately assumes the offensive, and, by a vigorous advance movement, charges the enemy in turn, relying on the works to cover its retreat if driven back. 213. In every combination of this nature the flanks are the weak points; they should rest, if practicable, on some unassailable point, as a marsh, river, c.; otherwise very strong works should be thrown up for their protection. 214. It has been proposed, by some writers, to throw up several lines of detached works for the defence of a position; so that the troops in the first line may retreat under cover of the second, and so on. This arrangement, in the first place, can seldom be made....
